The Antelope Valley Groundwater Agreement Association (“AGWA”) hereby joins in the case management statement filed by the United States.

If the Court chooses not to follow the recommendation by the United States, then AGWA recommends that the subject matter of the February trial should be technical issues associated with the return flows from imported water. Such issues would include the amount of return flows and whether such return flows have augmented the water supply of the Basin in light of the associated water quality issues. This trial will involve discrete technical issues left unresolved by Phase III that have been a major sticking point in the settlement discussions. It will be possible to accomplish this trial within the two weeks currently scheduled in February, and with the short time period for discovery between now and February. In fact, this may be the only trial subject matter that is possible to accomplish within the current time parameters.
