Survey reveals AV groundwater level dropping Severe declines in groundwater levels in Antelope Valley are revealed by the latest data from U.S.

Geological Survey.

A new USGS map, "Water-Level Contours for Spring of 1973", indicates the general groundwater table has declined at an average yearly rate of from 3 to more than 10 feet per year.

The map details the extent of two major pumping "de-pressions" both east and west of Lancaster. Hydrologists say water from the Lancaster area is being pulled toward these depressions, which is one reason why water in wells operated by Los Angeles County Waterworks District 4 is sinking at an average rate of about 7 feet per year.

Latest figures reported by the Waterworks District show drops closer to 10 feet last year.

USGS findings have been substantiated by farmers' response to a recent questionnaire sent out by Antelope Valley Board of Trade as part of its study of the feasibility of using State Project Water for local irrigation.

The AVBOT survey revealed an average yearly drop of almost 10 feet in groundwater tables both east and west of Lancaster.
