Jeff/Michael,

Mr. Thompson called me late yesterday to advise that he had, effective today, left Entrix and is moving to a new organization, the name of which escapes me at this early hour.

I advise you two now as I'm not supposed to talk to him without one or both of you. I was at my new office in Hermosa Beach, where we currently have no receptionist or staff, and caller ID is not yet programmed. So, I fielded the call blind.

I cut the call short before I thought to get his new contact information. I did tell him that I would have to file an ex parte or a new motion to amend the existing order to have his new company subbed in as the court-appointed expert.

Mr. Thompson,

I do not know if you still get this e-mail, but if you do, please give us your new contact information if you have it, including the e-mail address.
